ID Cards / Passport Photo

To alleviate some of the pressure on the office staff in Nijmegen, could all newcomers please submit a passport size photo to Herman (details at the back of this document) .

All BDWF members attending Nijmegen and staying at the Sportshall will be issued with an ID card with their photo that allows them into the British Army rest areas and admittance to the sportshall.

These will be made up prior to our visit to De Dennen sportshall.

Photos can either be emailed or posted and no later than 31 May 2010.

As of distribution date there are only 73 days to the start of Nijmegen 2010.

Daily Distance at Nijmegen 2010

Where are we walking?

The Four Days Marches have a different route each day; through the landscapes of Dutch provinces of Gelderland, Brabant and Limburg, through the city of Nijmegen and its outskirts.

Every walking day revolves around a different town in the vicinity of Nijmegen. The first day is otherwise called the day of Elst, the second day the day of Wijchen, the third the day of Groesbeek and finally the fourth day the day of Cuijk.

In the table below you will find the exact distance participants have to walk each walking day in the Four Days Marches 2010.

	30Km	40km	50km
Day 1	32.8	40.6	52.1
Day 2	33.6	39.4	48.4
Day 3	30	38.8	48.7
Day 4	30	42.2	50.1
Total:	126.4	161.0	199.3

As you can see from the above, due to both the towns/villages to be walked through and safety requirements, the distances per day approximate to the 'regulation' distances and do vary slightly from year to year.

Tuesday 6 April 2010

Thanks to the excellent care and attention of KNBLO-NL, the umbrella organisation of Dutch walking associations, we had a marvellous Walk Challenge Israel 2010. For over two weeks, we not only crossed the entire country with a group of nearly 200 KNBLO-NL members to connect with the people, culture, and history of this beautiful country, we also enjoyed a few stunning, and tough, walks. A walk through the Judea desert (20-km) with temperatures soaring up to 35° without any shade anywhere. 15 kms through the sand dunes at Ashkelon, where our feet sank in shifting sand with every step. And last but not least the two days March of Gilboa, organised by the IML in the Gilboa Mountains, where ankles and stamina were tested to the max by steep climbs and descents. Just like in China in 2008, participants only had positive things to say about the event, and that encourages us to continue with explorations and preparations for the Walk Challenge United Kingdom 2012. As in 2008, the Walk Challenge shall again share the stage with the Olympics, which are set to be held in London in 2012, although our organisational time window will mostly coincide with the Paralympics in the period between late August and early September 2012. We will find out more about that in the coming years.

Back in the Netherlands, we were happy to see that interest in the 94th Four Day Marches is as great as ever. It's the 6th of April today. Up to the 5th of April 18,710 people have signed up. And the registration period still runs for another week. That means we are poised to have the same number of registrations as in 2009 (48,317). On the one hand, that's great to see, because it is testimony to our event's lasting positive image and quality. But on the other hand, it also means that we are once again obliged to draw lots and disappoint quite a few people, because not everyone who registered can enter.

This time last year, I already wrote about the how and why of the draw. Allow me to recap briefly. First of all, we use a system based on registration periods. We do not work on a first-come, first-served basis. The idea behind that is that we don't want to put certain people at a disadvantage. Such as people without access to the internet, or who are unable to register online for other reasons. But also people from countries far far away, which puts them at a disadvantage in terms of the time it takes for information to reach them and for them to respond.

Based on experience, we decided a few years back that the ideal number of entrants is around 40,000. That number allows us to strike the best possible balance between maximum participation and aspects such as safety and event enjoyment.

Experience has also shown that around 5,000 people who register don't actually show up. And that then takes us to a registration limit of 45,000. If we subsequently have more than 45,000 people register, a draw is simply unavoidable.

We did set a date for the draw with the notary public: 14 April. With the exception of children born in 1998 and military participants, all individual participants who registered for reward 1 shall enter the draw. That makes up about $\frac{1}{3}$ of entrants every year (rule of thumb). That way we protect loyal participants against losing out in the draw, while still leaving sufficient opportunity for newcomers to join in. Besides, missing out because your lot is not drawn is partially compensated by the Via Vierdaagse project, for which 1,500 newcomers have already been awarded a starting place.

And I should also point out that losing out in the draw two years in a row means that you will be guaranteed entry in the third year. So anyone unfortunate enough to have lost out in the draw in 2009 and again in 2010 will definitely start in 2011.

ORDINALS
first (1st)	eerste
second (2nd)	tweede
third (3rd)	derde
fourth (4th)	vierde
fifth (5th)	vijfde
sixth (6th)	zesde
seventh (7th)	zevende
eighth (8th)	achtste
ninth (9th)	negende
tenth (10th)	tiende

The ordinals are generally formed by adding the suffix -de to the cardinal stem. Exceptions are: 1st, 3rd, and 8th which are, respectively, eerste, derde, and achtste.

The numbers from 1 to 12 will simply need to be learned. From 13 to 19 they follow a very similar pattern to the 'teens' in English.

Thereafter the numbers up to 100 follow a regular pattern. The suffix -tig is added to the numbers 2 to 9 to form the tens from 20 to 90 respectively, although there are slight differences with 20, 30, 40, and 80.

Translation of Dutch phrase for last month:	Excuse me, do you mind if I stare at you for a minute? I want to remember your face in my dreams.
Dutch phrase for the month: (Translation if needed next month)	Fantasie komt thuis terug en doet dingen die ik iedereen ga vertellen dat we in ieder geval deden ?
